Here's how it works

You Call Us

Contact Judy to discuss the fee structure, topic selection and length of your presentation. (As a general guideline, 60 minutes is typical in length.) Once a date has been selected, a deposit of 50% of the amount of the presentation fee will be required to secure your booking.

We Call You

Several weeks in advance of the presentation date, Michael will contact you to discuss and customize the issues and themes of your topic, culminating in a presentation that is uniquely your own.

On the Day

Michael will speak to your audience – educating, inspiring, motivating and entertaining them. He will illuminate the message of the presentation, giving examples of tools and techniques that can be used in all business and personal relationships, while developing a powerful awareness of the value of a positive attitude and creating success in one's own life.

In Conclusion

The balance of the presentation fee is due and payable on the day. Any further expenses, such as travel, incidental or miscellaneous fees will be invoiced and billed within 30 days of the presentation date.

Feedback and Testimonials are always welcome. We will provide you with a pre- and post-event questionnaire regarding your satisfaction with the presentation.

Mission statement

To empower people with the knowledge and the tools to stretch beyond their comfort zone and achieve their dreams. There are no limitations to the mind except those we accept.

Bortolotto & Associates work as a team to address your needs. Call now to discuss your upcoming event, learn how Michael can assist in delivering the message you require and to discuss our fee schedule.
